Today In Literature began as a weekly feature on Canadian radio. Now in its 5th year, this service offers interesting articles and sometimes whimsical trivia concerning authors and their works.

NOTE: Even though a “Member Login” window appears on the home page, you do not have to log in or purchase a subscription to use this service. The Library has purchased an institutional subscription for the DBU community.

Author Search:
1. Select the “Author Index” link, found just below the lead paragraph of the day’s story.
2. Select a letter of the alphabet corresponding to the desired author’s last name.
3. Select your author’s name from the alphabetical list.

Results:
- A picture of the author
- The author’s category/place in literary history
- Dates and places of the author’s life
- List of authors related to the featured author by time, place, or genre
- Linked list of articles about the author that have appeared in Today In Literature. A brief excerpt from the article is displayed to aid your selection.
- Click the linked article title to read the entire text.
- To reformat the article for printing, select the red “print” link found under the article title.

Other features:
- E-mail articles to yourself or others – click the “tell a friend” link.
